IRISH PROBLEM ILLUMINATED

We are pleased that Dr. Patterson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is giving the citizens of Ada some inside information about the Irish trouble. This newspaper has repeatedly spoken complimentary of the citizens of Ulster and has not been favorably inclined towards the Sinn Feins, or the nationalist party. On account of this attitude, we have been misunderstood, many believing that we were opposed to the Irish people enjoying the same privileges and opportunities that we here in America enjoy. We are glad that Dr. Patterson has come direct from Erin with a message, which will not only clarify the matter in the minds of those who hear him, but will justify the stand the News has taken in the past.

Here is the situation in a nutshell: A large percentage of the people of Ireland, outside of the province of Ulster, wants complete independence. By independence, they mean separation from the British empire. They want a republic of their own, modeled after that of the United States of America.

The vast majority of the citizens of the province of Ulster, which has most of the manufacturing plants of the entire island, are loyal to the British crown. They do not want to be separated from Britain and they do not want to be a part of a republic which, they think, will be dominated by such as are leaders in the Sinn Fein movement. It is generally agreed that Ulster, so long as her sons can fight, will never become a part of an independent Irish state.

Lloyd George has offered Ireland everything she can expect, and everything, under the circumstances, she ought to want. In insisting upon the principle of self determination, the Sinn Feins want to deny this right to Ulster. The British empire will not and should not agree to something which will kick out a million or more loyal subjects. It is unthinkable. Lloyd George is offering Ireland about the same rights that Canada enjoys. If Ireland agrees to this proposal, the Irish people will be as free as we are here in Oklahoma, to all practical purposes, and will have also the protection of the British army and navy.

The Muskogee Phoenix, independently republican, seems to be getting around to the League of Nations idea. What we consider a timely and able editorial appeared in this publication Sunday. We deem it worthy of reproduction:

As the day set for the convening of President Harding's conference on limitation of armaments draws nearer the press of the country, is anxiously asking the question: "What if the parley fail?" Will the world have gained or lost by the calling of the conference if nothing is accomplished, if no agreement or understanding is reached by which the burden of preparation for future wars may be lifted?

Quite naturally it is a question of concern. We have been willing to assume that should the gathering result in nothing more than an exchange of ideas it would be only so much time and money wasted and an effort lost. But the press, not only of America but the European nations, has begun to view the prospects of failure with utmost alarm and to fear most sinister consequences. Unless the powers of the earth agree at this historic gathering in Washington to curtail their armies and navies editors believe, the delegates will return to their homes filled with suspicion of their sister nations, magnifying the arguments advanced as to why armaments cannot now be limited and the world will groan under the greatest era of militarism it has even known.

The fear seems extremely distant and far-fetched. Indeed this sense of alarm that appears so prevalent may be the salvation of the conference. The very fear of the result of failure will increase the determination that it must not fail. No nation desires to enlarge its military forces, no nation can afford it. They have all, to borrow the phrase of Tommy Atkins, been "fed up on war." They long for peace, they know that they cannot survive without it. Their taxation has reached the limit of endurance.

It is true that nations will sit around the council table suspicious of the other. But they will be ready and willing to find a way to clear that suspicion or at least a way to protect them from the fellow notions which they themselves cannot trust. Britain, because she survives on commerce, unless her navy is to be the greatest in the world must have the assurance of the other nations that the seas will never be closed to her; France, if she is not to maintain any army that includes every able bodied man in the republic, must know that German hatred can never strike again, she must be assured that a power greater than Germany, her ancient foe, will stay the Hun at her border; Japan, unless she is to supplement her fighting forces, must be promised room for the expansion of her peoples. One need not be a diplomat to see whether we are racing. The nations of the earth must unite to assure protection to each other. Then will each gladly limit its army and its navy almost to the points of complete disarmament. The hour of the much despised league of nations is at hand.

The rain of Saturday night offers needed relief to cattle men and does away with much dust. Somehow, Oklahoma weather generally comes about right, everything considered.

The cotton forecast is now only a bit more than six million bales. Indications of a cotton shortage before the 1922 crop can come on the market are strong. Cotton may go to a high price before another summer.

With Ada shipping asphalt, flour, cement, crushed stone, glass products, manufactured articles, business will be dull only if it is dull throughout the entire Southwest. While the city gets the bulk of its support directly or indirectly from the farms hereabout, it is not entirely dependent upon them.

The Evening News

The Swift Plan for Industrial Peace.

Muskogee Phoenix: In these days when the industrial problem perplexes and the question of how we shall care for the unemployed remains unanswered it is but natural that we should be more than interested in some new program by which employer and the employed may meet upon a common ground of understanding.

That such a common ground must be found we are all agreed. If it is not we go to smash. We are weary of the bickerings and domineering ultimatums of capital; we have often lost patience with the threats and demands of labor. We are tired of warfare and we long for industrial peace. We have come to realize—and it is a rather sickening realization—that we all have been the loser, that strikes and lockouts of the last few years have meant universal sacrifice and have gained nothing either for labor, capital or the public.

Swift and Company, a great packing concern upon whose payroll perhaps 300,000 people are dependent, has come forward with an innovation which its promulgators declare is the remedy for our industrial ills. It may be and it may not. Fundamentally it is based on sound justice and good sense. Nine-tenths of the employees of the Swift company, by their own votes, decided that an organization of the employees themselves would hereafter deal with the employer. The questions of wages, hours and working conditions will be determined amicably in conference.

Labor officials have denounced the plan as a "reversion to the stone age." We fail to get their viewpoint. It is decidedly a step forward but it yet remains to be proved whether it is a step in the right direction.

What the labor officials fear—and we believe their fear genuine and sincere—is that the employer, by the simple fact that he controls the pay envelope of the man with whom he deals will resort to the throat methods, that the employee, without the aid of outside counsel, will be bulldozed and led astray.

Labor makes the mistake of viewing the Swift plan as an assault upon labor—as an attack upon the organized unions. It need not be. There is no reason why union labor cannot, itself, adopt such a program of mutual understanding and friendliness.

It may be that the Swift idea will fail but it should at least furnish to capital and labor the nucleus of a new scheme of things whereby the hostility that has so long existed may be swept away and in its stead there may be born a spirit of goodwill, of desire on the part of the employer to give to his men the best that he is able to give and of the men to give to the man from whom they receive their wage their utmost efforts. When labor and capital adopt that as their platform then strikes, lockouts and warfare will in truth have "reverted to the stone age."

FISHER WATCHES TEXAS KLANSMEN IN LONG PARADE

Judge and Mrs. W. H. Fisher returned yesterday from Lancaster, Texas, where they have been visiting relatives several days and attending a reunion of pioneers of Dallas county.

Scores of old Texans, all of whom lived in the Lone Star state before 1852 and many of whom were settlers there before Texas was admitted to the Union, flocked back to attend the meeting. One pioneer 94 years old, entered into all activities of the reunion and was present at a basket dinner given on the grounds Thursday.

This is the first of these reunions Judge Fisher has attended in 32 years. His family moved to Lancaster, a short distance south of Dallas, in 1848, and many of his kinsmen still live in the county.

Saturday night Judge and Mrs. Fisher watched a Ku Klux Klan parade in Lancaster in which 72 automobiles, each filled with from five to eight men, took part. The robed figures appeared from the north, coming from toward Dallas and passed quietly through the streets of Lancaster, the procession uninterrupted. As they passed over the hill and out of sight, with lights of their cars flashing against the dark sky, the Klansmen presented a scene which the judge declared to be the most beautiful and inspiring he ever witnessed.

EQUIPMENT SENT FOR GUARD UNIT

Practically the entire outfit of equipment, including thousands of dollars worth of field artillery materials, has been shipped to the local Battery "F" of the Oklahoma National Guard, according to a letter from Adj. Gen. Charles Barrett received Saturday morning by Capt. Robt. Kerr, battery commander. Barrett said his information came from the U. S. quartermaster.

This consignment includes everything that the battery will use except guns and horses, the letter said. These will be sent as soon as smaller equipment is checked up and certified. Some of the smaller materials to be used by the local outfit is now in the hands of Captain Kerr and the rest is expected here by Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Guns, horses and the heavier equipment of the battery will be kept at the county fair grounds temporarily, Captain Kerr said, but other stuff sent here for the guard will either be issued to men in the form of uniforms and personal equipment or will be kept under the personal care of the battery commander.

Ada now stands in line to get one of the two headquarters batteries and combat train now being considered by the state guard, General Barrett said. One of these is to go to Wetumko but the other can be brought to Pontotoc county is proper effort is made, he said. Some plans to locate the battery there have been started, according to Captain Kerr, but they will not be made public until something definite on the assignment is announced.

Sanders Bound Over. J. B. Sanders waived preliminary hearing Thursday before Justice of the Peace H. J. Brown on a charge of disposing of mortgaged property and was bound over to the district court under $2,000 bond. He failed to make bail and was returned to the county jail.

NEW GUARD OUTFITS ADDED IN OKLAHOMA

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 26.—With the return of Adjutant General Barrett to headquarters here, from Washington, announcement was made of the recognition of Battery C, Second Field Artillery, at Tulsa and Battery D, Second Field Artillery, at Chickasha.

The batteries, according to General Barrett, had been organized, received federal inspection, and approved, but recognition had been withheld by the Militia Bureau because of lack of appropriations to provide equipment and pay for any additional units of the National Guard. This regulation was issued September 2.

Upon General Barrett's recommendations and representations however, authority was obtained to include in Oklahoma's National Guard program, the Tulsa and Chickasha units of Artillery, and for the organization of a Service Battery of the Second Field Artillery at Chickasha. This would complete the organization.

A sanitary unit and a medical detachment of the First Field Artillery has been organized at Wetumka.

Authorization has been obtained in a special for the disbandment of Co. B Second Infantry at El Reno. A company already organized at Pawhuska will replace company B, according to General Barrett.

Sgt. O. R. Liversay, Q. M. C., has been promoted to First Lieutenant of Infantry, and assigned to Company B, Second Infantry. Pvt. Brent Newell, Q. M. C., was promoted to Second Lieutenant of Infantry and assigned to Company B.

First Lt. Maurice D. McNeill, Company D Second Infantry, has resigned, and his resignation has been approved, according to General Barrett. His resignation was tendered because of personal business and attendant moving obligations.

Captain J. N. Harbour, Seminole, has been promoted to major and is assigned to the Wewoka units. Former Lieut. W. L. Knight, of Wewoka, now is Captain Knight, and with Major Harbour is to complete the Wewoka organization.

Captain Armstrong of Pawnee commands the new infantry company there, his promotion from Lieutenant just being announced here.

Captain James H. Arndt and First Lieut. James Dodson are furloughed to the National Guard Reserve, in accordance with the Act of June 3, 1916, according to the provisions on the general order the disbandment of Co. B Second F. A. at Chickasha.

Oklahoma will be the first state in the union to have 100 percent allotment and organization of National Guard troops, according to belief expressed by National Guard officers here.

Three Plead Guilty. M. Hagle and Mack Colbert entered pleas of guilty to a charge of being drunk in justice of peace court Sunday and were fined $10 and cost each. J. C. Foster, against whom two liquor charges were filed in the county court, plead guilty Sunday and was sentenced to 40 days and $50 on each of his pleas. He has started his sentence in the county jail.

NARCISSUS TO RELATE STORY ON HER HUBBY

"Judge, I'm as innocent as a babe. Shore haven't done 'er thing. My wife, she don't like me any more and that's why she had me arrested," asserted a negro in police court this morning.

"She wanted to go ter Okmulgee and I see short aint going ten let her. If she wants to get mad I don't care but I see not going to jail fer no gal."

J. B. Homesley, resident of Dark Town, faced the police judge this morning at the invitation of an officer and stated his case. It was finally decided to continue the case until more evidence could be secured as the judge said he had no record of the law's forbidding people to refuse privileges. Narcissus Homesley, the wife, will be asked to give her side of the story before action is taken on the matter, police said.

SECOND NORMAL GRID TEAM AGAIN VICTOR

By hard pounding and compact playing, the Normal second eleven continued its victories of the season by defeating Allen high school 47 to 0 Saturday afternoon at Allen. The Ada men scored almost at will and many long agins were made through the Allen line.

This is their second game, having defeated Maud high school last Friday in a loose game, 7 to 0. Coach Thompson believes he has a winning second team. Plenty of good material is available for a second team, he states.

PLANS STARTED FOR GETTING NEW CHURCH

A movement for the building of a new Presbyterian church in Ada received the unanimous approval of the local church's session Sunday following a resolution submitted by the Senior Woman's Auxiliary of the church.

The resolution proposed moving all services of the church to the auditorium in the City Hall, which already has been secured for the purpose, and razing the old building, adding the proceeds of its sale to the building fund.

This proposition will be submitted to the congregation of the local Presbyterian church at a special call meeting at the church next Wednesday night, according to announcement. The new church probably will be built on the site of the old structure.

SIGN NEAR WALK HELD AS AID TO HI-JACKER BAND

Several cases were up in police court this morning. Roy Carter, arrested on a charge of being drunk pleaded guilty to the charge this morning and was released on paying his fine of $8.75. J. B. Homesley, negro, was up but his case was set for hearing this afternoon at 4. No definite charge was made against the negro, although he was arrested at the request of his wife.

Lydia Reynolds was arrested for loitering. She was allowed to return to her home at Coalgate.

Mayor Kitchens announced today that the city had taken action against the building of a sign for a local clothing store on East Main street. The Thomas Cusack advertising company was having the sign constructed, but it was temporarily stopped on the grounds that no such wooden structure can be erected for business houses, within the fire zone. Mayor Kitchens objected to the sign being built near the walk because, he said of its being an aid to hi-jackers.

855 NEW RECORD FOR S. S. NUMBER

Local Baptist Church Puts Up New Standard Sunday For Attendance.

First Baptist church smashed all previous records for Sunday school attendance in Ada yesterday when 855 were reported as a total attendance from all classes. The record which this attendance broke was one established by the same Sunday school early in June during the revival meeting.

Two hundred and fifty-six men attended the Men's Bible class at the McSwain theater yesterday morning and practically all departments of the Sunday school were filled. It was reported. Drizzling rain which began shortly before the Sunday school hour kept the church from reaching its goal of 1000 present. Rev. C. C. Morris declared this morning. A total collection of $47.50 was received in Sunday school at the Baptist church. Attendance for yesterday is believed to be a record for this part of Oklahoma.

Counting the 186 who attended the North Ada Baptist Sunday school, the goal of 1000 was easily reached, it was pointed out. Seven additions were made to the church at the morning service Sunday.

Rail Officers Deny U. S. Board's Right To Lay Down Policy

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Representatives of the Pennsylvania railway system appeared before the United States Railway Labor Board this morning, presenting a letter in which the carrier denied the right of the board to "interrupt the rounds of management" and stated that in view of the fact it could not discuss certain points the board permitted it to discuss it would not present any oral argument. The board accepted the letter, sending copies of it to representatives of labor organizations.

RELIGIOUS WAR AT FOUNDATION OF ISSUE

"All of our cities of more than 10,000 population have 90 percent Catholics on their law enforcement staffs. And did you know that our Secretary of the Navy, the man who recalled Admiral Sims and gave him such a severe panning, is a Roman Catholic and the United States Navy is at this moment under the direction of the Pope at Rome? And yet a howl goes up from every side if we even propose to read the Bible and offer prayer in our schools as a means of elementary religious education."

"Five states in the Union are now under Catholic administration, 70 percent of our former president's appointments were Catholics, and our only two federal naval academies are now under the domination of Rome."

Many Foreign Clubs. "When I returned to the United States I found in New York and elsewhere small clubs in which only Italians could have membership, others in which only Germans could enter, some dominated by the Jews, and some that barred all others but Greeks. Yet when some organization bobs up and says 'we can use only pure Americans' there is an awful howl. I know nothing about this organization but surely the time is ripe for something or somebody to preach that kind of a doctrine."

In closing, Dr. Patterson touched upon the relation of the Irish question with the United States. "The time has come when we can't fold our arms and look placidly into the future. The Irish problem is coming to the United States as surely as I stand here and we must pray for strength to meet it. I am opposed to no man because of his religious belief but when that belief denies others of their rights it is fundamentally wrong and the sooner it is stamped out the better for us."

You will find that these coats and suits conform closely to the edicts of the season, and at the same time the styles are exclusive—you will not find them duplicated in this neighborhood. We are enabled to show you a splendid variety of styles—a carefully selected variety of the most desirable and wanted fabrics—garments which will stand every test, from every standpoint, and will prove their value in the service they render.

The last argument in favor of these garments, but at the same time one that will appeal to you with great force, is the price—a price that was impossible a few years ago. Now you can buy a much better garment for the same money you spent last year, or as good a garment as last year for much less money.

Noble had but a confused notion of what she thus generally promised. However, he said, "Thank you," and nodded vaguely.

"Of course, I don't know as it's so awful good," Florence admitted insincerely. "The family all seem to think it's something pretty much; but I don't know if it is or not. Really, I don't!"

"No," said Noble, still confused. "I suppose not."

"I'm half way through another one I think myself'll be a good deal better. I'm not going as fast with it as I did with the other one, and I expect it'll be quite a ways ahead of this one." She again employed the deprecatory little laugh. "I don't know how I do it, myself. The family all think it's sort of funny; I don't know how I do it myself; but that's the way it is. They all say if they could do it they're sure they'd know how they did it; but I guess they're wrong. I presume if you can do it, why it just comes to you? Don't you presume that's the way it is, Mr. Dill?"

"I—guess so." They had reached his gate, and he stopped. "You're sure none of your family have heard anything today?" he asked anxiously.

"From Aunt Julia? I don't think they have."

He sighed, and opened the gate. "Well, good evening, Florence."

"Good evening." Her eyes followed him wistfully as he passed within the inclosure; then she turned and walked quickly toward her own home; but at the corner of the next fence she called over her shoulder, "I'll leave it with your mother for you, if you're not home when I bring it."

"What?" he shouted, from the vicinity of his front door.

"I'll leave it with your mother."

"Leave what?"

"The poem!"

"Oh!" said Noble.

His mother handed him a copy of the first issue of the North End Daily Oriole, the next day when he came

THE ORGANSTEP
By Florence Atwater.

The Organstep was eated at his organ in a In some beautiful words of vagle and brir But he was a great organstep and always When the soil is weary And the mind is weary I would like to be an organstep seated all day at Whether my isprism ight be Fairchildt or Mr. I would play music like a vast amen The way it sounds in a church of new Subscribe NOW 25 cents Adv. & Poetry 20 cents up. Atwater & Rooter. Newspaper Building 25 cents per year.

Such, as is sometimes said, was the first issue, complete, of the North End Daily Oriole. Florence was not immediately critical of some distortions of meaning in the body of her poem, due partly to Atwater & Rooter's natural lack of experience in a new and exacting trade; partly to their enviable unconsciousness of any necessity for proofreading; and somewhat to their haste in getting through the final, and least interesting stage of their undertaking, Florence's poem being, in fact, so far as the printers were concerned, mere hack work and anti-climax.

And as they later declared, under fire, anybody that could make out more than three words in five of her old handwriting was welcome to do it. Besides, what did it matter if a little bit was left out at the end of one or two of the lines? They couldn't be expected to run the lines out over their margin, could they? And they never knew anything crazier than makin' all this fuss because: What if some of it wasn't printed just exactly right, who in the world was going to notice it, and what was the difference of just a few words different in her old poem, anyhow?

For, by the time these explanations (so to call them) took place, Florence was indeed makin' a fuss. Her emotions, at first, had been happily stimulated at sight of "By Florence Atwater." A singular tenderness had risen in her—a tremulous sense as of something almost sacred coming at last into its own; and she had hurried to distribute, gratis, among relatives and friends, several copies of the Oriole, paying for them, too (though not without injurious argument) at the rate of two cents a copy. But upon returning to her own home, she became calm enough (for a moment or so) to look over the poem with attention to details. She returned hastily to the newspaper building, but would have been wiser to remain away, since all subscribers had received their copies by the time she got there; and under the circumstances little reparation was practicable.

She ended her oration—or professed to end it—by declaring that she would never have another poem in their old vile newspaper as long as she lived.

"You're right about that," Henry Rooter agreed heartily. "We wouldn't let another one in it. Not for fifty dollars! Just look at all the trouble we took mulling and tolling to get your old poem printed as nice as we could, so it wouldn't ruin our newspaper, and then you comin' over here and goin' on this way, and all this and that, why, I wouldn't go through it again for a hundred dollars. We're makin' good money anyhow, with our newspaper, Florence Atwater. You needn't think we depend on you for our living!"

"That's so," his partner declared. "We knew you wouldn't be satisfied anyway, Florence. Didn't we, Henry?"

"I should say we did!"

"Yes, sir!" said Herbert. "Right when we're havin' the worst time tryin' to print it and make out some of the words, I said right then, we were just throwing away our time. I said, 'What's the use? That old girl's bound to raise Cain anyhow, so what's the use wastin' a whole lot of our good time and brains like this, just to suit her? Whatever we do, she's certain to come over here and insult us.' Isn't that what I said, Henry?"

"Yes, it is; and I said then you were right, and you are right!"

"Cert'nly I am," said Herbert. "Didn't I tell you she'd be just the way some of the family say she is? A good many of 'em say she'd find fault with the undertaker at her own funeral. That's just exactly what I said!"

"Oh, you did?" Florence burlesqued a polite interest. "How virry considerate of you! Then, perhaps you'll try to be a gentleman enough for one simple moment to allow me to tell you my last remarks on this subject. I've said enough—"

"Oh, have you?" Herbert interrupted with violent sarcasm. "Oh, no! Say not so! Florence, say not so!"

At this, Henry Rooter loudly shouted with applause and hilarity; whereupon Herbert, rather surprised at his own effectiveness, naturally repeated his mot.

"Say not so, Florence! Say not so!"

"I'll tell you one thing!" his lady cousin cried, thoroughly infuriated. "I wish to make just one last simple remark that I would care to sell myself with in your respects, Mister Herbert Illingsworth Atwater and Mister Henry Rooter!"

"Oh, say not so, Florence!" they both entreated. "Say not so! Say not so!"

"I'll just simply state the simple truth," Florence announced. "In the first place you're goin' to live to see the day when you'll come and beg me on your bented knees to have me put poems or anything I want to on your old newspaper, but I'll just laugh at you! Indeed? I'll say! 'So you come beggin' around me, do you? Ha, ha!' I'll say—I guess it's a little too late for that! Why I wouldn't—"

"Oh, say not so, Florence! Say not so!"

"Me allow you to have one of my poems? I'll say, 'Much less than that!' I'll say, 'because even if I was wearing the oldest shoes I got in the world I wouldn't take the trouble to—'"

Her conclusion was drowned out. "Oh, Florence, say not so! Say not so, Florence! Say not so!"

The hateful entreaty still murmured in her resentful ears that night, as she fell asleep; and she passed into the beginnings of a dream with her lips slightly dimpling the surface of her pillow in belated reprieve. And upon waking, though it was Sunday, her first words, half slumbrous in the silence of the morning, were, "Vile things!" Her faculties became more alert, during the preparation of a toilet which was to serve not only for breakfast, but with the addition of gloves, a hat, and a blue velvet coat, for church and Sunday school as well; and she planned a hundred vengeance. That is to say, her mind did not occupy itself with plots possibly to make real; rather it dabbled among those fragmentary visions that love to overlap and displace one another in the shifty retina of the mind's eye.

But in all of these pictures, where-in prevaingly she seemed some sort of deathly powerful Queen of Poetry, the postures assumed by the figures of Messrs. Atwater and Rooter (both in an extremity of rage) were miserably suppliant. So she soothed herself a little—but not long. Herbert in the next pew in church, and Henry in the next beyond that, were perfect compositions in smugness. They were cold, contented, aristocratic; and had an imperturbable understanding between themselves—quite perceptible to the sensitive Florence—that she was a nuisance now capably disposed of by their beautiful discovery of "Say not so!" Florence's feelings were unbearably to the place and occasion.

But at four o'clock that afternoon she was assuaged into a milder condition by the arrival, according to an agreement made in Sunday school, of the popular Miss Patty Fairchild.

Patty was thirteen and a half; an exquisite person with gold-dusted hair, eyes of perfect blue, and an alluring air of sweet self-consciousness. Henry Rooter and Herbert Illingsworth Atwater, Jr., out gathering news, saw her entering Florence's gate, and immediately forgot that they were reporters. They became silent and gradually moved toward the house of their newspaper's sole poetess.

TAX REVISION WILL YIELD MAMMOTH SUM

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The tax revision bill as reported on by the senate finance committee, is estimated to yield $3,324,000,000 this fiscal year, or $84,000,000 more than the measure passed by the house, says the majority report on the appropriation bill made public today by the committee.

For the next fiscal year, the report states, the bill should yield $2,735,700,000, including the $75,000,000 increase over the house total. This program, it is added, assumes that for the fiscal year 1923 the total ordinary expenditures of the government will amount to approximately $3,500,000,000 as compared with $4,054,000,000 this fiscal year and $5,116,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

TY COBB BREAKS HITTING HONORS WITH HEILMANN

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Ty Cobb, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, has climbed into a tie with his teammate Harry Heilmann, for the batting honors of the American League, according to averages released today and which include games of last Wednesday. The Georgia peach who has been hitting with due regularity since entering the home stretch is batting .394, a mark which he held a week ago, while Heilmann who has been holding top lace honors, hit a slight batting slump during the last week and dropped from .398 to a tie with his manager.

Babe Ruth added a brace of home runs to his string and brought his season's record to 56. Ruth also is trailing the two Detroit stars for the batting honors with a mark of .378, just four points in front of George Sisler, of St. Louis who is hitting .374.

Ruth is far in front of his rivals as a run getter having registered 168 runs for the Yankees. He has made 193 hits which have placed him far in front for total base honors with a mark of 431. Besides his circuit drives, Ruth's hits include forty doubles and fifteen triples.

Sisler has taken the lead in the stolen base department by pilfering three bases during the past week, and bringing his total to 27. S. Harris of Washington who was leading a week ago failed to add to his string of 26.

COLUMBUS IS CENTER FOR RED CROSS MEET

(By the Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 26.—With thousands of delegates coming from all sections of the United States and Island possessions, this city is putting on the finishing touches for the National Red Cross convention here, Oct. 4-8, preparatory to the renewal of membership activities to be launched in November.

Nationally and internationally prominent speakers have been assigned places on the program for the four days of the convention. Six sectional conferences, offering chapter representatives an opportunity for an interchange of views relative to the practical application of the various phases of the peace time program, will be held simultaneously during the convention. Among the subjects to be discussed are: Post War service, nutrition service, volunteer service, nursing service, public health nursing, health service, Junior Red Cross and Peace-time home service.

On the evenings of Oct. 7 and 8 a pageant especially written for the occasion by Ruth Mougey Worrell, nationally known pageant writer and producer, will be presented. The pageant will visualize the history, achievements, ideals and plans for the future of the American Red Cross. More than 2,000 men, women and children will participate, in addition to the chorus of 1,500 voices directed by Prof. Horace Whitehouse. Humanity is the lead figure in the pageant. Mrs. Worrell received her inspiration for the pageant from the glorious stained glass memorial windows in the national headquarters of the American Red Cross at Washington.

Miss Louise Franklin Bache, who has been in the service of the Junior Red Cross for two years, is the author of the Junior Red Cross pageant. "The Junior Court of Service," to be presented by 1000 children, augmented by a chorus of 100 children's voices. The pageant will bring before the audience in tableau form the manifold activities in which the Junior organization members are engaged today.

CRIPPLED PAIR OF HIGHWAYMEN SOUGHT MONDAY

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The police are today looking for three highwaymen, cripples, two on crutches and the other hobbling on a cane, who last night held up Thomas Payne of this city and robbed him of $20, according to Payne's complaint to police.
Payne told the police he was sitting in his automobile, accompanied by a young woman on a road about 100 yards from the Walter Hood Army hospital when at the point of a gun he was commanded to leave the machine by the three men who hobbled across the road, two on crutches and one on a cane, appropriating $20 and then, ordering him back to the car, threatening to shoot unless he drove away slowly. He described the three as hatless and coatless.

OKLAHOMA YANK HAS FIGURE ON STATUES

(By the Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Sept. 24.—Although fame as a sculptor's model awaits him, Olin L. Stone of this city prefers the modest place of a store clerk. Soon, his image will be emblazoned on a memorial that will overlook the historic battlefield of Chateau Thierry, France.

Selected from a hundred American doughboys who represented the best physical specimens of the American expeditionary force, Stone has since had numerous opportunities to pose for artists of world-wide renown. To all, however, he has turned a deaf ear and quietly continued his duties in an "army store" here.

Stone's image will adorn a statue that, when completed, will form a unit of what is declared will be one of the most artistic battle monuments erected in commemoration of the world war. It will be cut in stone 18 feet high and 8 feet wide. Stone will represent an American soldier standing on a pedestal, taller than the image of a French soldier, who stands at attention. The figure of a French girl with one hand resting on the Frenchman's shoulder and the other extending a farewell handshake to the American, will complete the group.

The memorial will be the work of Cantigny, Montdidier, Aisne, and of Howard Davis, an American sculptor. It is expected it will be completed next year.

Stone saw service in the battles of Cantigny, Montdidier, Aisne, Marne, Meuse and Argonne. He also served with the Army of Occupation and in December, 1918, was returned to France to receive decorations.

When it was decided to erect the memorial at Chateau Thierry, a careful selection began for the American whose figure was to adorn the monument. The selections finally dwindled to a hundred, and these men were sent to Paris for a final choice by artists. Stone was the unanimous choice of Roux and Davis.

ARDMORE, Sept. 24.—A murder trial a day for nine days is the schedule for the criminal term of district court of Carter county, starting October 10. Fifty two cases are scheduled, nearly all of them being new cases since last term of court.

The Ada Weekly News reaches almost every farm home in the county. Are you taking advantage of this effective means of getting your message abroad? What do you have to sell to farmers? Try it.

"I was almost out of commission when I started on Tanlac, but it was not long before it had me feeling like a new man," said J. W. McBath, 2428 Popular street, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.
"I was in a bad way for three years, my appetite was poor and what I ate seemed to give me no nourishment. I lost weight until I fell off thirty pounds and my whole system was in a terribly run-down condition. I couldn't sleep to do any good and was so nervous and worried I was almost desperate.
"Tanalac took me up right from the start and now I am as sound as a dollar. I eat anything I want, and the fact that I have gained twenty-five pounds shows how well it has agreed with me. There is no doubt in my mind that Tanlac is the best medicine in the world."
Tanalac is sold in Ada by M. A. Waits and druggists everywhere.

CIRCUS CLOWN IS FINDER OF WHITE TOPS EVERY YEAR

One would naturally take it for granted that any man who had the ability to provoke laughter would prefer a job in the motion picture studios of Southern California to the strenuous life on the road with a circus. But not so with "Bill Tate, 55, of the fifty clowns coming to Ada, Tuesday, October 4, with Al G. Barnes circus. And Tate is only one of the fun-makers who rejected permanent contracts with the film directors to follow the lure of the circus with its constant changes from city to city.

Tate has been a circus clown for so many years that he has lost count of the number. Each winter he is deluged with offers from the studio managers to join their forces in the production of the comedies that give enjoyment to millions of theatre-goers. All these offers are rejected, because Tate is a circus "jokey" and as such will end his days. He has never acted before a camera and says he never will.

In this stand Tate is almost alone for all the other members of "clown alley" with the circus have at some time or another participated in screen productions. Last winter was a quiet one in the studio circles so when spring rolled around the blue birds began to sign, the fun-makers listened to the call of the white tops.

MUSKOGEE, Sept. 24.—Suit filed in the United States court of the eastern district of Oklahoma in connection with the Cimarron and Arkansas river bed oil lease case will be heard in this city next January, Judge Robert L. Williams declared today.

Guild Swimming Party
One of the most unusual outings the Lena Boyd girls have enjoyed this summer was a swimming party and breakfast at the Glenwood park Saturday morning, July 10.

The girls met at the home of Miss Russell, 220 W. Fourteenth street at six o'clock and went at once to the pool. It was a pleasant surprise to find at the beginning that the guild had among its members some swimmers who were expert teachers. After swimming, the girls built a fire and cooked their breakfast. They enjoyed a feast of fried chicken, bacon, eggs, fresh peaches, oranges, bananas and hot coffee.

Those present were Misses Thelma Roberts, Eddie Mae Horn, Wilma Chilcutt, Roberta Allen, Lottie Faust, Pauline Knotts, Catherine Taylor, Grace Mooney, Geraldine Hale, Jeanette Bobbitt, Oleta Montgomery, Clara Rayburn, Bernice Rayburn, Mollie Russell, Dollie Gay, Lucille Chapman, Pansy Sparks, Mary Bobbitt, and Mesdames Bobbitt and Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Gay, who have been making their home in Chickasha for a year and a half, are moving back to Ada. Mr. Gay will retain his electric supply house and contracting business in Chickasha and also maintain the one here. They have not decided where they will live.

Mrs. G. M. Little, mother of W. D. and Sam Little of 119 West Nineteenth street, and her daughter, Miss Ruby, arrived today for an extended visit. Mrs. Little's home is in Marshville, North Carolina. Miss Ruby holds a position with the Secretary of State in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Swimming Party.
Phi Beta members and friends enjoyed themselves to the utmost last Saturday morning when all went to the swimming pool for a plunge. A delightful hour was spent in this popular sport after which breakfast was had.

Each member of the Sorority invited a friend and the party was well formed. All who were fortunate enough to go with the girls declared themselves to be more than pleased.

Bart Smith and family left overland today for New Mexico where they will spend two weeks visiting relatives and friends at different points.

"SWAMP CHILL TONIC DOES THE WORK!"

Arkansas Merchant Highly Praises Famous Old Remedy

J. W. Mustain, Dealer in General Merchandise, Old Grand Glaize, Ark., sells a lot of Swamp Chill and Fever Tonic. The reason he sells a lot is expressed in a letter he recently wrote us, which says: "Swamp Chill Tonic sure does the work. I certainly want to thank you for your fair dealing."

John C. Rogers, Center, Tex., says: "I have sold your Swamp Chill Tonic for years and it is my favorite tonic. I always recommend it, because of its fine laxative properties."

Dealer C. E. Miller, Bernice, La., says: "I handle all the standard chill tonics on the market, but sell ten bottles of Swamp Chill Tonic to one of any other kind. After a customer has used it once he or she will use no other kind."

Thousands of other dealers in many different towns and cities strongly recommend Swamp Chill Tonic to their customers as the very best malaria remedy on the market. 60 cents a bottle—get one today.

HARDING SPEAKS ON BONUS TODAY

President's Message Is Less Than 3000 Words Long.

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 12.—President Harding has completed early today, the preparation of his special message expected to be read to the senate this afternoon dealing with soldier bonus legislation. The document was said at the white house to be less than three thousand words in length and it was sent to the public printer this morning with the expectation that it would be ready for delivery about two eastern standard time this afternoon, although a definite hour for Mr. Harding's appearance before the senate remains unsettled.

BONUS WOULD STAGGER FINANCES OF COUNTRY

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 12. Enactment at the present moment of adjustment compensation legislation for the veterans of the world war would "greatly imperil the financial facilities of the country," President Harding told the senate today in the second address he has made to that body during his administration. "We owe every obligation to the disabled and dependent," the president said, and the executive branch owed it to the country "frankly to state the difficulties we are called on to meet and the added peril this measure would bring."

"This would mean an effort to expend billions where we have to discharge first our duty to those we must not fail to aid. Our land has its share of the financial chaos and industrial depression of the world."

"We little heeded the growth of indebtedness or the limit of expenses during the war because we could not stop to count the cost. Our one thought then was the winning of the war and the survival of the nation," he said.

After four months of consideration of conditions "which would stagger all of us, were it not for our abiding faith in America," the president said, he was fully persuaded that three things were essential to restoration.

"These are," he continued, "the revision, including the reduction of our internal taxation, the refunding of our war debt and the adjustment of our foreign loans. It is vitally necessary to settle these problems before adding to our treasury any such burden as is contemplated in the pending 'soldier bonus' bill."

Mr. Harding said it was "unthinkable" to expect business to revive while maintaining the "excessive taxation of war" and "quite as unthinkable to reduce tax burdens while committing the treasury to additional obligations ranging from three to five billion dollars."

Millinery and Suits

A Characteristic Silhouette

In one of the characteristic silhouettes for the coming season the waist is large and bulky and is placed at a low line, while the hips are slim and tightly draped. The skirt flares gradually from snugly fitted hips to the lower edge. The inspiration for this silhouette is largely drawn from Persia and Hindustan. Suits for the winter are featured with jackets in various styles, knee-length or longer. Sleeves of suit are set in at a deep armhole. Jackets in severely plain tailored styles are also featured. We have just received some of these striking new suits for the Fall season, colors in Navy, Brown, and even Black stronger than heretofore. Tricotone and Triconia are featured greatly for the early season, at very moderate prices.

NEW FALL CHAPEAUX

Two-color combinations are good in demand—small trimmed hats with ribbon bands in colors of Orange, Blue and Tangerine are predominating in materials of Duveltyne and Velvet. Pressed Beaver Suits with roll brims, in colors of Black, Navy, and Brown will be very much in vogue for the on-coming season. Felts and Felt Sailors in colors of Jade, Tangerine, Black, Blue, and other new Fall shades, with roll brims are also greatly favored. What They Say

By A. L. FENTEN

My attention has been called to a most interesting and timely editorial in the News of last Friday entitled "Back to Fundamentals." This article deserves infinitely more than the passing interest of the citizens of the community and challenges their careful and serious consideration in view of the fact that it is the first real note of alarm along this line that has appeared in the public press in so far as the writer has been able to observe. There has been criticism enough and, as the article in question stated, much of it is justifiable, but it seems that it has been left to the editor of the News to discover the real cause of complaints and strike directly.

With all thinking people it goes without question that our public school system is the basis of our national integrity and national power. It is an indisputable fact that our whole social fabric for future generations is strong or weak as the rising generation is sturdy or indifferently trained. An intelligent enemy preparing for future conquest of this country could proceed along no more effective lines than to undermine its public schools, realizing that with its hands holding the training of the young that it could so weaken the physical, intellectual, and moral character of a nation that it could control its destiny without serious difficulty.

The condition referred to by the editorial is not a sudden manifestation. It began to develop fifteen of twenty years ago when arrangements, considered at the time to be a most flattering one for America, were made to exchange with Germany professors from our universities for professors from theirs. This opened the floodgates of enemy propaganda into our schools until even our staunchest traditions have been in danger of being swept away in the torrent. However, the war ended too soon for the propagandist—Der Tag arrived earlier than was calculated by the powers of Berlin and there is evidence in this editorial that the country was not yet too late to bring about a return to pure American ideals.

Education is training. Training involves always a continuity of practice, some of our noted social educational writers to the contrary notwithstanding. Since 1914, under the influence of these pseudo-authorities education has become a veritable vaudeville performance where instead of drill for efficiency a series of entertaining stunts whose only virtue lay in their startling effects have been, in program order, shunted onto the education stage. It is small wonder that employers have found these young men and young women who come to them out of our public schools unfit for serious business of every day life. Coming, as most of them have, out of a situation that has hopped, skipped, and jumped them about over a so-called course of education which permitted them usually to select what they liked how can they be expected to take readily upon their unaccustomed shoulders more onerous things? They have been trained through twelve formative years of their experience that the serious business of life is to get as much of joy, pleasure and gaiety out of life as they can and put into it as little of honest toil (termed drudgery by our modern educators) and serious thought as possible.

Education is not and never will be in America apprenticeship. To imagine that a child can be measured by any standard yet discovered for fitness in any trade, profession, or business so that his education may be directed along such particular line, without limiting the child's individuality, without making him a mere cog in a machine incapable of developing a personality of his own or an even remote idea of democracy is as silly as it is unnatural, yet this one idea more, perhaps, than any other of recent introduction into our educational scheme is being vaunted and advertised as the latest and most thrilling performance ever staged. It is a relic of the war when under stress of emergency we did things that are wholly unreasonable in times of peace. A man may do many foolish and wasteful things when his house is afire that he would not dare to do under less exciting circumstances.

It is time that we were getting away from the influence of the war and the things that led up to it and get back upon a level of sanity and sense. No one would for a moment think of returning to the old "blue-back speller days" though the writer is by no means disposed to ridicule those days but certainly the "patent medicine era" ought by this time to have been passed and we should set about getting our educational affairs on a basis of plain commonsense.

Hiring Help Solely on Reference Plan Wrong

A shining example of the fallacy of employing help solely on the reference plan is presented to employers in a delightful way by Constance Talmadge in her newest picture, "Good References," to be shown at the American theatre, commencing Tuesday.

In this picture Constance, as the heroine, takes the part of a poor girl seeking a job without references. She is turned down everywhere until finally she "borrows" the references of a sick friend. The scheme works and she gets a job, and proves quite efficient.

The trouble with many employers, according to Miss Talmadge, is the fact that they themselves pay too little attention to the study of character and too much to looking up past records of achievement. "Many girls with little or no previous experience would prove excellent workers if they were only given a chance," she said. "But the employers are afraid to try them out. However, times are getting better, and I hope to see all employers gain a broader and more human point of view."

"If a picture such as the one I have just made has any influence toward bettering the condition of deserving girls by calling attention to bad business practices, then I will feel satisfied."

"Knowing that references are sometimes misleading and often fail to do justice to the bearer, wise employers are hiring their assistants on a trial basis. Experiments in many of the country's largest offices have proven this to be the most satisfactory and economical method of maintaining an efficient staff."

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 26.—Fire of unknown origin Sunday destroyed the Meyers Brothers Commission houses here and burned 25,000 chickens at an estimated loss of $100,000.

WINTER COMES ON WITH RENTS HIGH

Many Families of State Will Vainly Seek a Place To Avoid the Cold.

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 24.—With little apparent change in the rental prices of houses, apartments, and rooms in Oklahoma City, winter is creeping onto the city and state, and many families are seeking homes for the winter with little prospect of finding anything satisfactory, according to Claude E. Connally, state labor commissioner, and official of the Oklahoma City Tenant's association.

Prices quoted from all the real-estate agencies handling homes for rent range from $40 a month for five unfurnished rooms, to as high as $130 and $135 a month for six and seven furnished rooms. Apartments are quoted at from two-room apartments, without bath, at $50 a month, to four rooms without bath at $80 and five and six rooms at from $100 to $200 a month.

Five apartment houses in Oklahoma City have no apartments at less than $100 a month. Some of the less expensive rooming houses are charging from $7 to $10 a week for one room, without bath, and in the myriad rooming houses above stores and business establishments of various sorts, rooms can not be had for less than $5 a week, according to the prices quoted.

In a one day's search for rooms over the city, only one house was found where rental for one room was less than $20 a month. This was in a private home, two miles from the business district. The owner in this case asked $15 a month.

Building Goes On.
The building "boom" is going merrily on, according to real estate dealers. Hotel proprietors also are building homes in the residential districts and abandoning their apartments in their own hotels to people who will pay $80 and $100 for two furnished rooms "close to the heart of the city" it was declared.

One regular army colonel, discussing the housing situation said: "Take my salary, supposed to support a good house, plenty of servants and occasional pleasure trips. From it deduct $120 for one month's rent on a seven room house $60 a month for a servant, $100 a month for food and incidentals for myself and family—I have two children—and about $25 to $40 for clothing. What have I left? Why, it's worse than the old problem of four boys and one apple the teacher used to propound to us."

"Needless to say, I have stopped paying that. I can't. I'm trying to house my family in two rooms and I'm paying $80 a month for them. Twelve new homes and apartment houses have been completed during the past two weeks, according to surveys by real estate dealers' committees. None stood vacant less than two days, their owners said."

BIG WAITING LIST FOR STATE SCHOOL OF BLIND

(By the Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Sept. 26.—The Oklahoma State School for the Blind has another large waiting list of young folks who desire an education. It is filled, its quota being 124. Conditions will be somewhat relieved about the first of February, when a dormitory authorized by the last session of the legislature, will be completed.

The dormitory is to accommodate 26 additional students. It is said the state has need for an institution capable of accommodating from 300 to 500 blind students, as that many applications are received for training throughout the year.

HARDING OPENS MEETING TODAY

our nation, and the welfare of American people so too big for us to solve. If we fail today, we will try again tomorrow.

"It is fair to any of you to say that you are not asked to solve the long controversial problem of our social system. We have but the America of today and the fundamental principles of economic, industrial and political life which made us what we are, and the temple requires no remaking now."

Depressed by Fever
"We are incontestably sound. We are constitutionally strong. We are merely depressed after the fever and we want to know the way—every body in America, capitol and labor, employer and employees, captains of industry and privates in the trenches ill go over the top in the advance drive of peace. Frankly, it is difficult to know whether we have reached the bed rock to which reaction runs before the upward climb begins, but you are representing the forces which made for all that we are, or ever can be, and your soundings ought to be reliable."

"I would have little enthusiasm for any proposed relief which seeks either palliation or tonic from the public treasury. The access of the stimulation from that source is a recognized cause for trouble rather than a source of cure. We should achieve but little in a reactionary way if we continued exciting a contributory cause."

"It is not my thought to suggest your line of conference. I have wished to say to you that the people of the United States are very deeply interested, and not only alone are the unemployed, but who are concerned for our common welfare and the world is looking on to find helpfulness in our American example."

Secretary Hoover, speaking immediately after the president had concluded his address, declared the conference should investigate the character of the nation's unemployment, and second, evolve a series of emergency methods to meet the present situation.

Guard Against Return
The secretary also expressed the belief, as did President Harding, that the conference also should consider what could be utilized in the event of the return of unemployment.

Remedies for the unemployment situation, Mr. Hoover declared, must be included in any legislative program and there must be no drain on the public treasury. The United States, he said, had so far escaped the tolls and charity methods of foreign nations and should seek a mobilization of co-operative action of manufacturers, the unemployed and public authorities to meet the situation.

Mr. Hoover signified that the conference in order to facilitate its work, should at once dissolve into committees which would report the various recommendations to the conference and that a committee on organization be appointed.

A motion that a committee on organization be named by Mr. Hoover was adopted and a committee of ten, to be added to later, was named by Mr. Hoover.

The conference then adjourned to meet again this afternoon to continue the preliminary reports of the committees which immediately went into session.

Ledoux Attends
Coincident with the convening of the unemployment conference, Urbain Ledoux, who has been conducting a campaign for the relief of the unemployed in Boston and New York arrived in Washington and said he was planning to attend the conference as an observer. Ledoux said he would appeal to President Harding to publish the names of those, who during the war profited to the extent of more than 100 percent, so that they might share equally with the unemployed, the latter part to be used under government supervision for "work for the common welfare."

Ledoux was confined to his room in a hotel today with a severe cold which he said was contracted during his Sunday meeting in New York.

CHICAGO POLICE MAY LEAVE JOBS

Wholesale Cutting of City's Force Threatened During Liquor Probe.

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Dismissal of Chicago policemen in wholesale lots was talked in police circles today in connection with a federal investigation of the violation of the prohibition laws.

Following an announcement Saturday by Chief of Police Fitzmorris that he believed half the police force of 5000 men may be involved in the liquor law violation, Charles Clyne, United States District Attorney, promised his co-operation to Fitzmorris and today was to furnish a list of all officers who have fallen before the federal investigation, in connection with whiskey running and bootlegging.

Chief Fitzmorris has announced his intention of dismissing every man implicated in the liquor deals and claims he has a list of men that can replace hundreds of policemen if it becomes necessary to dismiss that many.

In a statement issued last night the chief pronounced prohibition a failure until liquor has been cut off at its source of supply.

ADA NORMAL JUMPS INTO SECOND PLACE

The East Central State Normal at Ada has jumped into second place among state normals so far as enrollment is concerned, according to an official announcement made public today by the president of the Ada institution.

After being a good third for several years, the normal under the new administration has rapidly grown until it is now ahead of the Durant State Normal school, which up to this year was the second largest in the state, Edmond having had the largest attendance since its establishment in 1889.

Official figures at noon last Friday showed that the Ada Normal had 39 more students enrolled than did the Durant Normal. This is the first time in years that it has ever held second place in enrollment during the regular school year and faculty members are pleased with the growing enrollment and will exert every effort to increase the lead as much as possible during the coming terms.

The Ada Weekly News is gradually becoming a real farmers' news paper, edited by Byron Norrell. It not only has a wide circulation, but an advertisement in it carries also the prestige of its reputation for truth and right dealing.
